A COMPARATIVE STUDY BETWEEN ENGLISH AND INDONESIAN INTERROGATIVE SENTENCES IN THE NOVEL THE "JUROR" AND "SONG JURI"

ERNI HASTUTI, Prof. Suryadi Harmanto.,Ssi,MM

Undergraduate Program , 2000

Gunadarma University

http://www.gunadarma.ac.id

Key Word: Comparison, interrogative sentences

ABSTRACT:
Interrogative sentences in English is divided into Interrogative Sentences without question word Which is usually called as yes / no question, and interrogative sentences with question word is called as WH- Question are similar with Interrogative sentences in Indonesia. Interrogative sentences consist 7 question words, they are â How, Who, What, Where, Why, When, Which. Because in its usage or application the English or Indonesian, Interrogative sentences has similarity and differentiation in meaning, position and form. This problem intrigues the writer to dig up more about those similarities and differentiation. As we know that interrogative in English is bounded with the position, form, verb and time, meanwhile in Indonesian it is not. Considering the importance of learning both English and Indonesian Interrogative sentences, the writer decides to do a research on Comparative Study Between English and Indonesian Interrogative sentences In The Juror and Sang Juri. The Interrogative sentences use Interrogative words and try to analyze and compare what are the similarities and the differences between those two languages. In this study the writer uses library research. This study is conducted by taking sources from reference books, journals, newspapers, and the guidance. The writer also took the materials that are related to Interrogative sentences in English and Indonesian. After accomplish this skripsi, the writer found out that, There are similarities and differences between Indonesian and English Interrogative Sentence. The similarities and differences occur in the position, the form and also in the meaning of the words.