ABSTRACT

Reading a novel is something interesting. It can bring a pleasure and knowledge to the readers. It is one of ways to appreciate a work of literature. When the writer reads this novel, he is interested in discussing the moral aspects in the main character, because this is one of Robert Louis Stevenson's great horror and thus a pillar of what most critics take to be the apex of Robert Louis Stevenson dramatic art. Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde's novel that is full range of emotion, incident, mystery and horror aspects, which makes the reader's felling unsteady. This novel tells us about a dual personality much depicted in plays and films, also influential in the growth of understanding of the subconscious mind through its treatment of a kind and intelligent physician who turns into a psychopathic monster after imbibing a drug intended to separate good from evil in a personality. Mr. Utterson is a British lawyer who wants to prove that Hyde is a foul, twisted, shrunken creature that had brutally stomped a little girl and beaten an old man to death with no reason. In his way to prove, Mr. Utterson faced by a lot of mysteries and incidents. Mr. Utterson is a character that essentially describes the play's main plot, takes a key part in it, and gives fist-hand direction to the others. The writer's aim of study in this thesis is to describe the moral aspects in the main character in Strange Case of DR. Jekyll and MR. Hyde. In this research method, the writer used two sources of data, the main source and the secondary source. The main source is taken from novel entitled Strange Case of DR. Jekyll and MR. Hyde and the secondary source is taken from Internet, and furthermore. The writer uses a library research technique by collecting data from libraries and others references books. Internet services also are the source information for the writer. In analyzing data the writer was categorizing the moral aspects of Mr. Utterson found in the novel Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde into three parts such as individual, his relation to society, and his relation to God, then explain the data, and making conclusions. The result of this research showed that moral aspects of Mr. Utterson; as an individual is a good person; he had good relation to society and he had a good relation to God. So he is a kind person.
